

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

A Toast.

"Here's to our first love's eyes!"
The feast
Grows strangely calm and still;
The jest on laughing lips has ceased.
The riot hushed, until
Over the will, whose head throng
A deathlike silence lies
What was it hushed the jocund song?
"Here's to our first love's eyes!"

Out of the mists of many years
From the heart the gleam
Lightened with laughter, dim with tears,
Seen through a waking dream;
Black as the raven's glancing wing,
Blue as the April skies—
Through silken lashes glistening—
Here's to our first love's eyes!

Ah, though they closed upon our view
To nevermore disclose,
What after-noon ever knew
Eyes that were sweet as those?
And though they cause worn hearts to Throb
And make vain memories rise,
Choke back the bitter pain and sob—
Here's to our first love's eyes.

Around this board the beads are gray,
The hair and passions cold;
And eyes have shown and passed away
And love's been bought and sold
Along the ways our feet have trod,
Yet boyhood's faith still cries
To those on earth to those with God,
"Here's to our first love's eyes!"
—James Lindsay Gordon.

Brilliant Afternoon Reception.

Mrs. James Jamieson Hickey and Mrs. James Edmundson Cannon entertained at a brilliant reception in Woman's Club yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Ivan Maltby and Mrs. Stuart Neville Michaux being guests of honor.

The receiving party, composed of Mrs. Cannon, exquisitely gowned in pink chiffon; Mrs. Hickey, in a beautiful creation of white lace; Mrs. Maltby, Mrs. Michaux, Mrs. Pinckney Williamson, Mrs. John J. Long, and Mrs. Rutherford Dula (the last three ladies of Danville), stood in the front parlor against a background of palms. Bowls of pink roses were on the table, and crystal vases held the same lovely flowers.

Mrs. John D. Stayman and Miss Mary Travers served punch.

Assisting in entertaining and serving were Mrs. Andrew Jackson Montague, Mrs. Welford Reed, Mrs. J. C. Harvey, Mrs. Charles Marshall Graves, Mrs. Virginia Dickens, Addie Chaffin, Emma Brackenridge, Eugenie Taylor, Charlotte Miller, Katherine Copeland, and Mary Johnston.

Mr. Crockett's Lecture.

So much interest is expressed in the lecture to be given at the Y. M. C. A. Hall, on Thursday, January 17th, by the well known author and lecturer, the Rev. W. L. Crockett, of Tidewater, Scotland, on "Scott and the Scott-Land," that the Woman's Club has decided to depart from its usual custom, and sell a limited number of tickets to outsiders at fifty cents each, each member being entitled to her own and one guest ticket.

In this lecture, Mr. Crockett gives the most interesting incidents of Walter Scott's life, showing over one hundred and thirty slides of the Scott country; also, portraits of Scott, of his ancestors and of many persons with whom he was intimately connected.

Davis—Wingfield.

The marriage of Miss Elise Wellington Wingfield, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Edward Wingfield, to Mr. Herbert Butler Davis, of Atlanta, Ga., took place very quietly at the bride's home, in Henric county, yesterday afternoon, at 1 o'clock. The Rev. John Hallowell Dickinson, of the church of the Holy Comforter, performed the ceremony.

The parlors were decorated with a profusion of palms and white carnations, carrying out the color scheme of green and white.

Mrs. Robert Fiquia had charge of the music, playing with exquisite touch, the "Bridal Chorus" from "Lohengrin," as the bridal party entered the room, and "Hearts and Flowers" during the ceremony.

Mr. A. D. Davis, of Atlanta, brother of the groom, was best man, and only attendant.

The bride was elegantly gowned in a dark blue, cloth traveling suit, with hat and gloves to match, and carried a shower of lilies-of-the-valley.

Mr. and Mrs. Davis left immediately after the ceremony for the honeymoon, to Jacksonville, and other Southern cities, and will be at home after February 1st in Atlanta, Ga.

The bride is a young woman of unusual charm and many accomplishments, and a large circle of friends regret her residence in another city. Mr. Davis is the son of an eminent Presbyterian minister of Atlanta, and is a successful business man.

Among those who attended the marriage from a distance were Mrs. Miller Hutchins, of Atlanta, sister of the groom; Miss J. T. Wingfield, of Albemarle county; and Miss Mattie Harrison, of Ashland, Va.

In Honor of Mrs. Swanson.

The Washington Post of yesterday contains the following account of an elaborate reception given in honor of Mrs. Swanson.

The Names

By ROBERT BROWNING.

Other selections from this author, his portrait, autograph and biographical sketch, have already been printed in this series.

Shakespeare!—to such name's sounding, what succeeds

Filly as silence? Falter forth the spell—

Act follows word, the speaker knows full well,

Nor tapers with its magic more than needs.

Two names there are: That which the Hebrew reads

With his soul only: if from lips it fell,

Echo, back thundered by earth, heaven and hell,

Would own "Thou didst create us!" Naught impedes

We voice the other name, man's most of might,

Awesomely, lovingly! let awe and love

Mutely await their working, leave to sight

All of the issue as—below—above—

Shakespeare's creation rises: one remove,

Thou' dreads—this flint from that infinite.

rate reception, given in honor of Mrs. Swanson. The Post says:

"Mrs. Claude A. Swanson, wife of the Governor of Virginia, was the guest of honor yesterday afternoon at one of the most delightful teas of the season, Mrs. Arthur Wallace Dunn, of Massachusetts Avenue, being hostess.

"The prettily appointed tea table had for a centerpiece a rare cut-glass basket filled with white roses, surrounded by ferns and at either end of the table was a silver vase of unique design, in which were great clusters of white sweet peas. The silver shaded candelabra and minor appointments carried out an effective color scheme of green and white.

"Mrs. Dunn received in a handsome gown of white crepe with trimmings of duchess lace and Mrs. Swanson looked charming in a white princess gown of duchess lace. Mrs. Carter, wife of Senator Carter, served food; Mrs. Mason, wife of Rear Admiral Mason, poured tea, and Miss Gardner, of Chicago, and Miss Juliette Williams, the debutante daughter of Colonel and Mrs. John R. Williams, presided at the punch bowl.

"Among others assisting were Baroness Paumgarten, Mrs. Walker, of Montanna; Mrs. Willis Moore, Mrs. J. B. Ackler, and Miss Mary Reich.

"Mrs. Swanson, who possesses an unusual charm of manner, is pleasantly remembered as one of the most gracious and hospitable hostesses when she made her home in the Capital City."
